Today the National Review asked Congressman Pence for his take on the game and if he's irritated that so many people who never watch football will watch the game this weekend. His and other responses can be found here .